LEKTRO ELECTRIC TOWBARLESS AIRCRAFT TUG SALES CONTINUE TO SOAR IN ASIA

Warrenton, Oregon - USA....Jesse Long, Executive Vice President of LEKTRO, Inc., the world's #1 producer of towbarless aircraft tow tractors, has noted a continued growth in sales to Asia/S.E. Asia. The most recent customer in S.E. Asia is Jet Aviation who will take delivery of another 120,000 lb. capacity LEKTRO model AP8850SDA following the 2014 Singapore Air Show for their operation at Seletar Airport. The sale, managed by Richard Stuart, Director of Singapore Aerospace and Aviation Services Pte Ltd (LEKTRO's S.E. Asia Representative), is just one example of recent trends in countries like China, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Japan and Australia. "A number of additional sales in the region are also in process," noted Stuart. Jet Aviation in Singapore now operates three LEKTRO units – one AP8950SD (certified up to the B737/A321 aircraft) and two AP8850SDAs, popular for its wide versatility: small enough to handle Lear's and Citations, yet large and robust enough to handle the entire range of business aircraft such as all Falcon Jets, Globals, Challengers, Embraers and Gulfstreams (including the new G650).

LEKTRO pioneered the towbarless tow tractor market when it first developed the towbarless tug back in 1967. LEKTRO combined its towbarless design with state-of-the-art battery power resulting in the safest, most efficient and most environmentally friendly tow tractor the aviation industry has ever experienced. These features are certainly some of the main reasons operators all around the world are choosing LEKTRO.

This year, LEKTRO is celebrating its 69th year in business under single-family ownership and continues to build on its reputation of unsurpassed quality and customer care. "It wasn't that many years ago LEKTRO delivered its 1,000th towbarless tug," stated Jesse Long. "Once most of the regional airlines in North America went with us, sales exploded...and now we have nearly 5,000 units in operation worldwide. 2013 was the second best year in the Company's history. Our products are in almost every country in the world today," adds Long. "It is a testament to the quality, reliability and workmanship built into each and every unit and LEKTRO's business philosophy of unparalleled customer support before, during and after each sale, no matter where our customers are based."
