MAJSIMCO AVIATION PURCHASES LEKTRO ELECTRIC TOWBARLESS AIRCRAFT TUG

Warrenton, Oregon - USA...LEKTRO Inc., the world's #1 producer of towbarless aircraft tow tractors, announces the sale of another electric towbarless tractor through its SE Asia distributor Singapore Aerospace and Aviation Services Pte Ltd. The latest customer is MAJSimco Aviation Pte Ltd, a Fixed Base Operator that aspires to provide a complete suite of support solutions as well as added convenience for aircraft owners and flying clubs. Based at Seletar Airport in Singapore, the General Aviation Centre (GAC) is the first in Singapore and Asia to incorporate a rotating carousel in its hangar.

MAJSimco will take delivery of their 120,000 lb. capacity LEKTRO model AP8850SDA in March 2014. The sale, managed by William Lee, Vice President, Aviation Business and Operations at Singapore Aerospace and Aviation Services Pte Ltd (SAAS), follows a successful year in 2013 where a number of new customers were won over by the versatility, efficiency and robustness of the LEKTRO tractor combined with the local support, training and maintenance services offered by SAAS. The AP8850SDA is popular for its wide versatility: small enough to handle Lear's and Citations, yet large and robust enough to handle the entire range of business aircraft such as all Falcon Jets, Globals, Challengers, Embraers and Gulfstreams (including the new G650).

LEKTRO pioneered the towbarless tow tractor market when it first developed the towbarless tug back in 1967. LEKTRO combined its towbarless design with state-of-the-art battery power resulting in the safest, most efficient and environmentally friendly tow tractor the aviation industry has ever experienced. These features are certainly some of the main reasons operators around the world are choosing LEKTRO.

This year, LEKTRO is celebrating its 69th year in business under single-family ownership and continues to build on its reputation of unsurpassed quality and customer care. "It wasn't that many years ago LEKTRO delivered its 1,000th towbarless tug," stated Jesse Long, Executive Vice President of LEKTRO. "Once most of the regional airlines in North America went with us, sales exploded...and now we have nearly 5,000 units in operation worldwide. 2013 was the second best year in the company's history. Our products are in almost every country in the world today," adds Long. "It is a testament to the quality, reliability and workmanship built into each and every unit and LEKTRO's business philosophy of unparalleled customer support before, during and after each sale, no matter where our customers are based."
